1. Welcome the book club members.

How is everyone doing tonight?

2. Mae West is living a life of luxury in New York City until the FBI raid her home and arrest her husband for leading a Ponzi scheme. The only thing the government doesn't seize is a camper and the deed to a RV park she now owns in Normal, Kentucky. Mae begrudgingly makes her way to this new “home” only to find her ex-husband's body floating the lake of the RV park.

Can Mae prove her innocence and make a new life for herself in a place that to her seems anything but Normal?

3. In the beginning of this book, our protagonist, Mae West, is blindsided to learn that her husband was the part of a Ponzi scheme and they are going to lose everything they own.

Have you ever been blindsided by someone that you care about? How did you think Mae handled the betrayal throughout the book?

4. Mae has never spent any time in an RV or on a campground in her life.

Are you a camper? If so, do you prefer RV or tent camping?

5. Mae has a goal to make the Happy Trails Campground look like it did in the brochure from many years ago. The residents of Normal rally and roll up their sleeves and get to work to help Mae achieve this dream.

Are you a DIYer? Or do you prefer to have someone help you out on home remodel projects?

6. Were you able to figure out who the killer or culprit was? Why or why not?

7. What was your favorite moment in the book?
